

Source: MTV Geek Now before everyone goes crazy, I have to council that MTV Geek cautions that this is a bit of speculation on there part but they also raise some points that inspire a wee-bit of optimism. The site goes on to report that writer Marc Bernardin has a talent for spotting "possibilities" long before they appear on the public radar. Case in point, he was the first person to suggest that Donald Glover should play Spider-Man and look at the media blitz that ensue after that. According to some camps Glover was very seriously considered for the role and while he ultimately didn't get it, some say that the new Ultimate Spider-Man, Miles Morales is paving the way to make Donald Glover:Spider-Man a reality. But that's a totally separate topic of discussion. Bernadin raises some interesting points about Firefly over on his blog, and I encourage everyone to

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=51453&t=Could_Joss_Whedons_FIREFLY_Make_A_Triumphant_Return_On_Netflix