

The king of the jungle is getting closer to making his return to the big screen. The character was created by Edgar Rice Burroughs in his classic novels from the early 1900's. Tarzan has been depicted in many mediums such as, comic books, radio, television, and films. Actually over eighty movies have been produced about the legendary character. Craig Brewer is the director of the Footloose remake that is about to open up in theaters and he has just turned in his script for Tarzan that he plans to also direct. He says he was inspired by one Tarzan film in particular, 1984's Greystoke: The Legend of Tarzan, Lord of the Apes. That version of the Tarzan tale was more origin oriented than previous versions, and it starred Christopher Lambert (Highlander). Hey Craig, what can you tell me about the current status of your proposed Tarzan script? Craig Brewer: I'll tell you

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/debbiedowner/news/?a=47856&t=Craig_Brewer_Reveals_emTARZANem_Details