

At a Q&A session today for The CW's new DC Comics show Arrow, which is based on Oliver Queen/Green Arrow, a new cast addition for the series was revealed. Currie Graham (who was previously in Criminal Minds) is set to play the "King" of the Royal Flush Gang in the series' sixth episode, titled "Legacies". With the show being a more grounded/realistic take on DC characters (a la Christopher Nolan's Dark Knight trilogy), it should come as no surprise that the Royal Flush Gang will be given a grounded approach. "We don't make any secret of the fact that we took a lot of inspiration from Chris Nolan and how he reconceptualized the world of Batman for the Dark Knight trilogy," says executive producer Andrew Kreisberg. "He took somebody like Ra's Al Ghul, who in the comic books is immortal and uses magic to sustain himself, and created a storyline and

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=68383>