

We've known for a while now that Mother Boxes will be a big part of Justice League, and the movie is expected to kick off with a flashback to Darkseid's first defeat at the hands of man, Atlanteans, and the Amazons. It was then that it's thought they divided up the three incredibly powerful artefacts which we're assuming Steppenwolf is coming to Earth for following the events of Batman v Superman. It was during that movie we saw Victor Stone's father use something which looked an awful lot like a Mother Box at a S.T.A.R. Labs facility to save the life of his wounded son, though it was identified as only "US Gov Object 6-19-82" at the time. Well, the latest issue of Total Film Magazine confirms that Cyborg's body is comprised of a Mother Box, something which should make him pivotal to the story. Does this make him a guaranteed goner in the same way that Vision is destined to fall before Thanos in

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/other/cyborg-confirmed-to-be-the-third-mother-box-in-justice-league-a148782>