

Latino Review report that actresses Milla Jovovich, Kate Beckinsale and Sofia Vergara are all in the running to star in Danger Girl, an adaptation of the J. Scott Campbell/Andy Hartnell comic book series. The site add that the log line for the project is, "A beautiful adventuress joins forces with an all-female spy agency as they race around the world to recover a trio of powerful relics."

With Benderspink reportedly putting the package together and shopping the rights around to major studios, we may not have long to wait until we see the three hotties on the big screen together playing the sexy trio of spies. The comic book series, which debuted in 1998, was an action-adventure spy series revolving around a group of highly intelligent and deadly buxom babes, all of whom had special skills in weaponry, demolitions and treasure-hunting as part of the top-secret organization 'Danger Girl'.

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=44973&t=iDanger_Girl Adaptation Moving Ahead With Milla Jovovich Kate Beckinsale and Sofia Vergara