

The People report that Daniel Craig has been offered a multi-million pound deal to star in a further five James Bond movies after 2012's Sam Mendes helmed Skyfall. Producer Michael G. Wilson told the tabloid: "Daniel's been a terrific Bond, a superb actor and a -terrific man. The fans love him and I don't think there's a better actor to play the part." However, they may have jumped the gun a little as he confirmed that this isn't anywhere near being a done deal. Instead, "It's certainly something we'll be -discussing with him once we finish shooting Skyfall. Filming has gone very well so far and I'd love Daniel to surpass Roger's record and do eight pictures. Daniel's been an absolute pleasure to be around because he takes the role so seriously. There's really no one more passionate about making these films work than him – he's a film maker's dream,"
