

Bond 23 (which despite rumors to the contrary will NOT be called Carte Blanche), will be directed by Sam Mendes. While Craig admits he was initially reluctant to take on the role of Bond, he realizes that the diversity of roles he's been playing - ranging from C&A to Spielberg's The Adventures of Tintin and The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo - are a direct result of Her Majesty's top spy. "It's just what's happening at the moment and it's very exciting for me, because I get the chance to do movies like this, which are way beyond what I would have expected to be doing four or five years ago," says the actor. At the same time, he knows he has to REALLY hit the gym for his third stint as Bond (following Casino Royale and Quantum of Solace), which he's not looking forward to. "It's really boring," Craig sighed. "So

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/mediageek/news/?a=45756&t=Daniel_Craig_Talks_Bond_James_Bond