

More and more it seems that all the players from the first X-Men film franchise are teasing that they might be involved with X-Men: Days Of Future Past. Patrick Stewart as well as Famke Janssen have given fans hope that we will see them in upcoming X-Men movies. Daniel Cudmore, who portrayed Colossus in the first franchise, talked to Comic Book Therapy and said he isn't so sure. Although he says he would love to. Said Cudmore on returning, "I don't know, I'd love to. If they're into it I'm down. Again, at the end of the day it's really up to the big wigs of Hollywood on what they want to do. You just kind of smile and go with it." With the time travel aspect of Days of Future Past it would look like we can't rule out anyone from the first set of films to return. After Matthew

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JakeLester/news/?a=69394>