

At this year's New York Comic-Con, it was revealed that Sigourney Weaver will play the villain in The Defenders. As of right now, we have no idea which role she's taking on (though we do have some theories), but this is by far one of the most exciting additions to the Marvel Cinematic Universe to date. During a new interview, Daredevil's Charlie Cox was asked to weigh in on what she'll bring to the table. It goes without saying that the British actor is obviously very excited to work with the Alien star! "You know, when she came on stage with us at New York Comic Con, I wanted to say, 'In Hell's Kitchen, no one hears you scream.' I don't think it gets better than Sigourney Weaver. I think we are immensely lucky to have her. It's a testament to shows like Daredevil and Luke Cage and Jessica Jones. The quality of those shows have drawn someone of her caliber, which is

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/tv/marvel/defenders/daredevil-star-charlie-cox-weighs-in-on-sigourney-weaver-a146422>