

FANGORIA #313 doesn't hit the shelves or arrive in your mailbox till next month, but we've got the first peek at the covers and the full contents to share with you now! Yes, another pair of covers, both spotlighting Tim Burton's eagerly awaited interpretation of the classic Gothic soap DARK SHADOWS, with Johnny Depp as Barnabas Collins on the front and artist Mark Crow's interpretation of Helena Bonham Carter's Dr. Julia Hoffman on the back. The issue features interviews with Burton, Carter and producer Richard D. Zanuck on their SHADOWS update, plus actress Marie Wallace on the original series. Loyal fans of the 60's cult soap opera have been up in arms after seeing the first few minutes of Tim Burton's Dark Shadows. And to be honest I don't know why. No, I'm not defending Tim Burton's vision of the show, my gripe is that this should have all been expected. There may

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/nailbiter111/news/?a=56694>