

We've known for a few days now that Avengers: Infinity War starts shooting tomorrow, but someone may want to remind the Russo Brothers about that. As you can see below, Dave Bautista has revealed that he starts work on Monday but has yet to see so much as a single page of the script! Is this secrecy gone too far or has Marvel warned the actors to say absolutely nothing about the two-part release? That would make sense, especially as saying that they haven't seen the screenplay is a great way to dodge questions from journalists (and fans) looking to learn any minor snippet piece of information! Interestingly, while Bautista will be back as Drax as soon as tomorrow, Elizabeth Olsen won't be suiting up as the Scarlet Witch until April! That's a huge gap, and trying to figure out the logistics of this shooting schedule must have been a nightmare for Marvel Studios. While filming is going to take place in the

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/avengers/avengers_infinity_war/dave-bautista-starts-shooting-avengers-infinity-a148374