

A press release from IDW Publishing has revealed that David Armstrong has been attached to direct an adaptation of Crawl To Me, a horror-based comic book series published by IDW which follows a couple who have to face what's apparently an evil entity in their home. The comics are written by musician/writer Alan Robert (who is also producing the film adaptation). Armstrong previously worked on the cinematography for the Saw films, and Crawl To Me will be his second film as a director. A writer is currently being sought to pen the adaptation. The first printing of Alan Robert's critically acclaimed horror graphic novel, Crawl to Me (IDW Publishing), has sold out within a week of its release. As a result, the award-winning publisher is currently scheduling a second pressing. In related news, director David A. Armstrong, cinematographer for the successful box-office hit franchise, Saw, is now attached to direct a

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=52564&t=David_Armstrong_To_Direct_Adaptation_Of_CRAWL_TO_ME