

Deadline report that NBC is to develop a drama series based on Midnight, Mass - a DC Vertigo title from 2002, which focused on married occult experts Adam and Julia Kadmon as they deal with supernatural cases around America. Snow White And The Huntsman co-writer Evan Daugherty is to pen the adaptation, which will be produced by Warner Bros. TV and Bill Gerber's Gerber Pictures. The comic's creator John Rozum will also serve as an executive consultant on the project. This is actually not the first time NBC have attempted to get a Midnight, Mass series up and running - back in 2009 there were plans to adapt the comic with a different writing team, but it didn't go to pilot stage. Let's hope they have better luck with it this time around.

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrrants/news/?a=67543>