

That Hashtag Show have been a pretty consistent source of info when it comes to Marvel-related character breakdowns in the past, so it's well worth paying attention to their latest scoop. It seems they've come across a description that's being circulated around for the Domino character in 20th Century Fox's Deadpool sequel, providing us with a pretty good idea of what the studio is looking for in an actress to give life to Cable's most-fortunate partner in crime. Female, All ethnicities, Late 20s – early 30s Sexy, lithe and athletic. She has a witty personality. Neena is a no-nonsense badass who rarely shows her feeling. Highly capable, supremely confident and armored in... well ARMOR... and bullet-proof sarcasm. But beneath her shell she's still and vulnerable and some soft, beating remnant of her humanity remains intact. In this scene we need to see both sides. When she can't get what she needs with insults, bluster and threats we need to see some of that vulnerability. It's

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/deadpool/deadpool\_2/deadpool-2-character-breakdown-for-domino-revealed-kerry-a148931