

Collider recently had the chance to catch up with Deadpool writers Rhett Reese and Paul Wernick, and they were quick to ask them about how the highly anticipated sequel will go about setting up X-Force. We already know that Cable and Domino will be showing up, while there have been rumblings that Deadpool 3 will pretty much be X-Force. Regardless of whether that's the case or Fox launches a separate franchise, the Merc with the Mouth's next movie is going to go some way in setting that up, and the duo explained how much they're taking that into consideration as they work on the sequel.

RHETT REESE: There is a responsibility we have to the X-Force universe, and I do think we will not disappoint the fans going into Deadpool 2 and then setting up X-Force and beyond.

PAUL WERNICK: We never want to let the tail wag the dog. We want to tell the best Deadpool story we can. But I do think

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/deadpool/deadpool-2-writers-shed-some-light-on-how-the-sequel-will-set-up-foxs-a148171>