

The Wrap recently posted a story claiming Ryan Reynolds had filmed a cameo as Deadpool for James Mangold's Logan, which was swiftly debunked by all parties involved - but even if The Merc with a Mouth doesn't show up in that movie, there might just be another project in the pipeline that'll reunite Reynolds and Hugh Jackman following their brief interaction in X-Men Origins: Wolverine. The Hollywood Reporter's Borys Kit send out a Tweet late last night, suggesting there is something in the works for Wolvie and Wade after all. Re: Deadpool in LOGAN - my sources say def no way he's in the movie. BUT...don't rule out something ELSE involving Deadpool & Wolvie. — Borys Kit (@Borys_Kit) December 29, 2016 Both actors have expressed an interest in working together on something like this in the past, so it's probably not too much of a surprise that 20th Century Fox jumped at the chance to get working on a Deadpool/Wolverine team-up flick - though

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/deadpool/deadpool-may-not-show-up-in-logan-but-apparently-there-is-something-in-a147781>