

In a lengthy interview with Entertainment Weekly, Dean Cain has shared his thoughts on the influence of Lois & Clark on the current comic book movies hitting the big screen. While he has a point, I don't think the show has really had that much of an influence, although that isn't really what he seems to be getting at. He makes a valid point about the "relationship dynamics" seen in CBM's (Thor and Captain America: The First Avenger are good examples of that to an extent) and here is an excerpt from the interview, although you can read it in its entirety by clicking on the link below. I can't let you go without asking you about a certain caped crusader. Obviously, you're still best known for playing Superman, and I feel like Lois & Clark was ahead of the curve when it comes to pop culture's current superhero obsession. Wish you

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=47112&t=Dean_Cain_Reveals_How_He_Thinks_iLois_Clarki_Has_Affected_Current_CBM's