

Deadline reports that Denzel Washington - recently coming off of his latest action film, Safe House - is in early discussions to join the cast of 2 Guns, a film that's based on a Steven Grant-written graphic novel published by Boom! Studios. Mark Wahlberg will be starring in the action film, while Baltasar Kormakur will direct the film. The script was written by Blake Masters, and Marc Platt is producing along with Boom!'s Andrew Cosby and Ross Richie. This will mark Kormakur's second film with Wahlberg; the two recently worked on the action thriller Contraband, in theaters now. Deadline also says that the financing of the movie is still coming together, but "my international colleague Nancy Tartaglione is covering Berlin this week and is already hearing that the film will be a hot sales title there. Universal will distribute and market in the U.S. and a deal is close with a

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=54273&t=Denzel_Washington_In_Talks_To_Join_Universals_2_GUNS