

Well-known for his role in Antwone Fisher, actor Derek Luke's appearance in Marvel & Joe Johnston's Captain America: The First Avenger film as 'Gabriel Jones' was revealed when the actor's name was spotted on an official poster. While he's lacked Captain America promotion, a possible reason for that has been offhandedly mentioned via Variety, which essentially highlighted the actor's upcoming Seeking a Friend film. Luke will soon be seen as Gabe Jones in "Captain America," a role he'll reprise in "Marvel's The Avengers." So could Derek Luke's lack of Captain America promotion be that he'll rather have a cameo in the film, presumably in the present-day bookends, and will play 'Gabriel Jones' fully-on in Joss Whedon's crossover spectacle The Avengers? Could the opening of The Avengers film actually be Captain America's WW2 setting? Could he actually be playing 'Gabe Jones Jr?' With endless possibilities, What do you think? Via Wiki - Gabe Jones appeared

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=37188&:t=Derek_Luke_To_Reprise_iCaptain_Americai_Gabe_Jones_Role_In_iThe_Avengersi