

Over at AICN "Quint" has posted details of his set visit to Shepperton Studios London, where Captain America: TFA was being filmed. It's a great read, giving us descriptions of the sets, concept art, as well as interviews with Chris Evans, Hugo Weaving and Joe Johnston etc. But by far the most interesting part is his description of a brutal scap between Cap and Red Skull that he witnessed being filmed. Here is that except, and once again, SPOILER Warning.. Because of the tight Orbital Bomber stage, our monitors were set up in a smaller, unused stage where we could watch as they filmed a fight scene between Cap and Red Skull. Um... yeah. How cool is that? Not only was I there to watch some filming of a Captain America film, but they brought us there for a down and dirty punch-em-up between two of Marvel's most iconic characters. And the

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrrants/news/?a=40591&t=Detailed_Description_Of_CapRed_Skull_Fight_Scene_In_iCaptain_America_TFAi