

Courtesy of the folks at Latino Review, at the annual CinemaCon in Las Vegas, Walt Disney's presentation featured new snippets on Marvel & Joss Whedon's crossover spectacle The Avengers. Among other things revealed, animatics & renderings, attendees got to see a rendition of Hawkeye's costume. Disney/Marvel showed a featurette about the upcoming production of the film. In the featurette, there was an artist rendition of actor Jeremy Renner's Hawkeye character. The costume is not the purple costume from the comic books. But, it is a black sleeveless costume with a little bit of maroon. There is the Hawkeye symbol on the chest and he carries modern professional bow. And The Wrap adds that, while there no mask, theres lots of arrows. Also included in the presentation, animatics, presumed to be of an action sequence, and also shots of actor Mark Ruffalo's head in makeup-type tests as the Incredible Hulk. Anyhow, with more to

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=34112&:t=Details_On_Hawkeyes_Costume_In_iThe_Avengersi_Revealed