

In a surprising turn of events, David Ayer has decided to return to Warner Bros. and the DC Films Universe to helm Gotham City Sirens, a live-action adaptation of Paul Dini's comic book series of the same name. It's also been revealed that Suicide Squad's Margot Robbie is set to make her return as fan-favorite Harley Quinn, and will serve as an executive producer on the film. But just who will make up the other Sirens? Well, director David Ayer seems to have answered that question. For now, we can only speculate as to who will be standing alongside Harley Quinn in the film and whether or not the film will stay faithful to the source material - however, David Ayer has taken to his official Twitter account to confirm his involvement, and appears to have teased the Sirens roster while he was at it. The tweet features the &quot;Sirens4ever&quot; hashtag with artwork showcasing Harley Quinn, Poison Ivy, and Catwoman. It's possible that Ayer simply

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/suicide\_squad/director-david-ayer-appears-to-tease-poison-ivy-and-catwoman-for-a147502