

James Wan's Aquaman (2018) doesn't begin filming for another couple of months, but that doesn't mean that the cast and crew aren't already hard at work. Director James Wan is also eager to let fans know that he's ready to bring the King of Atlantis and his underwater kingdom to life by sharing a new behind-the-scenes image of the main cast. Earlier today, Wan took to his Twitter account to share a new image that gives us a look at the cast of Aquaman during one of their first table reads and so he wouldn't spoil any casting news, Wan made sure to only include those we know about, which would be Jason Momoa (Aquaman), Amber Heard (Queen Mera), and Patrick Wilson (Ocean Master). However, Willem Dafoe, who has been confirmed to be Vulko in Zack Snyder's Justice League, seems to be missing. Does this mean that Dafoe's Vulko won't appear in Aquaman? It more than likely doesn't as he may have just been

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/aquaman/director-james-wan-shares-a-cool-new-behind-the-scenes-image-of-the-cast-a148435>