

Marvel's Thor: Ragnarok officially finished shooting today, and director Taika Waititi has shared a wrap video from the film's final "sci-fi space wasteland" location. The vid provides some cool glimpses of the set, as well as the various costumed extras, and we also see Chris Hemsworth (Thor) and Tessa Thompson, who is still sporting her Valkrie facepaint. Plus, we get a quick look at a new logo for the movie, the significance of which will apparently be revealed very soon. Also, at one point Waititi introduces the actor who'll be playing Miek, which obviously confirms that the Planet Hulk character will be appearing. Thor: Ragnarok is set to hit theaters November 3, 2017.

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/thor/thor\_ragnarok/director-taika-waititi-posts-a-revealing-new-video-from-the-a146339