

We got our first official synopsis and BTS image for Thor: Ragnarok last night, but Walt Disney Studios has also put out some promotional material for the rest of their 2017 big-screen releases. Among them are logos for DisneyNature's Born in China, Disney/Pixar's Coco, as well as hi-res stills from the likes of Cars 3 and Guardians of the Galaxy Vol.2 (though we did see that shot of Rocket and Groot in the first teaser). Disney has also debuted the current title treatment for Star Wars: Episode VIII. Obviously it doesn't bear the movie's official title, but it might be an indication that they're planning on revealing that soon. You can check them (and more) out below, and if you head on over to The Playlist they also have synopses for each film.
