

Yahoo Movies recently caught up with Doctor Strange director Scott Derrickson, and he weighed in on a number of very interesting topics relating to the Sorcerer Supreme. After talking in detail about why Benedict Cumberbatch was the right man to take on this role, Derrickson was asked just how close Joaquin Phoenix came to landing the part, and it doesn't sound like it was anywhere near as some claimed. "No [we didn't do costume tests]. There was nobody that really got that close." Recently, there's been a lot of talk about the Illuminati possibly being formed in Avengers: Infinity War. For those of you unfamiliar with that group, it was a team in the comics made up of some of the Marvel Universe's greatest minds who made some pretty controversial decisions along the way (like deciding to blast The Hulk into outer space, thereby ultimately causing the events of World War Hulk). SPOILERS: DOCTOR STRANGE - 7 Things It Got Right And 3 Things It Got

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/doctor_strange/doctor-strange-director-scott-derrickson-talks-joaquin-phoenix-the-a146310