

Talking to Chicago Sun-Times about his new movie, The Devil's Double, the Captain America: The First Avenger star talked about what it was like to work on the Marvel Studios movie as well as the chances of a sequel. However, he failed to mention whether or not he's signed up for more than just the one film, but here's hoping we do indeed get to see Howard Stark again in future. Cooper also comments on his role in Abraham Lincoln: Vampire Hunter, letting slip a few new details in the process. You also play inventor Howard Stark in "Captain America: The First Avenger." Any word on a sequel? You never have a clue if a film will strike a chord, but this movie has such a unique vision of the past and the future. It takes you back in a simple way with style where you don't feel bombarded by special effects. For

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=43504&t=Dominic_Cooper_Talks_iCaptain_Americai_Sequels_And_iAbraham_Lincoln_Vampire_Hunteri