

"Some people call me a terrorist. I consider myself a teacher." Those words pretty much tell us what can we expect from Sir Ben Kingsley's portrayal of the iconic villain, 'The Mandarin'. In the trailer, we finally got a good look at his ten rings, but it remains to be seen what kind of purpose do they have. One thing seems to be confirmed: there won't be any magical elements to them. In the trailer analysis over at Entertainment Weekly, they got a quote from Kevin Feige about all this: "Feige says we won't get ice rays and fire beams from these rings, like in the comics, but what will we get? Smart money says they're not just because the Mandarin has won a lot of Super Bowls." In the comics, the ten rings have a near-limitless power and no Earth science can explain that power. Each ring has a function, so it

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Wolvie09/news/?a=69189>