

They will be producing a short film in trailer form that is based off of the Saiyan saga from Dragon Ball Z. They have already given roles to Goku, Vegeta, Piccolo, Nappa and the rest of the DBZ crew from this era. As of now, they are only going to finish a trailer, such work has been done to previous series such as Street Fighter and Mortal Kombat. It is possible they will make a full blown live action movie or even a web series, but it matters if this project becomes a success. Check out some of the trailers and behind the scenes footage below! If it does become a success, would you like to see them work with 20th Century Fox (who still have the license to produce more Dragon Ball films if they please)? Or maybe just keep it as an Indie film?

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/DragonBallNews/news/?a=58319>