

The actress never thought she'd be playing an action hero, but The Darkest Hour and her next film Dredd have her playing kick-ass female leads. She even did most her stunts for The Darkest Hour, revealing that she actually broke her foot filming a scene that involved her character being tossed around a bus. Below is an excerpt from her interview with writer and movie critic, Josh Winning. What was it like wearing your leather Dredd outfit? I'm totally leather body-suited up! It's like a proper comic-book action hero. One thing I love about Dredd is its really realistic approach, it's a very dark and gritty approach, so my look is much less sexy femme fatale and a little bit more like a football player. Is the new Dredd gritty to counteract Stallone's cheesy '90s adap? It doesn't go that way only to separate itself from the former Dredd movie, it takes its air of

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/debbiedowner/news/?a=52928&t=DREDD Star Olivia Thirlby Discusses Working with Karl Urban