

According to the city's Cineworld Cinema, as well the official site for Dublin City's annual Movie Fest, exclusive footage for several forthcoming blockbuster films, including The Avengers, The Dark Knight Rises and The Amazing Spider-Man to name a few, is said to debut for their Irish attendees. Running over a weekend at the giant Dublin Cineworld, the inaugural Movie Fest promises preview footage, behind the scenes clips and recorded greetings from actors and directors. The programme also includes exclusive trailers from upcoming blockbusters such as 'Twilight: Breaking Dawn', 'Batman: The Dark Knight Rise', 'The Avengers' and 'The Amazing Spiderman'. Each day has a completely different line-up with at least two full film premieres. Thanks to the keen eye of Antovolk, in the message board area of the Movie Fest site, it's administrator offered slightly more details. No, the footage, greetings and trailers will be completely different [from SDCC] on both days.

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=44217&t=Dublin_Movie_Festival_To_Screen_A_New_Trailer_For_iThe_Avengersi_Among_Others