

Bad news comic book fans. Writer Ed Brubaker is not only stepping down as Captain America writer when the series is relaunched this November as part of the Marvel NOW! initiative, but he will also be leaving Winter Soldier with issue #14. Jason Latour will be taking over writing duties, and in an interview with Comic Book Resources, Brubaker has shared his thoughts on both leaving the series behind and the big screen debut of 'The Winter Soldier' in 2014's Captain America: The Winter Soldier. Be sure to click on the link at the bottom of the page to read more of his comments and sound off with your thoughts on this news in the usual place. On Leaving Winter Soldier Behind With Issue #14 Next January: Well, originally, the book was going to end around #14 or #15, because sales weren't as good as we'd hoped they'd be. I'd been planning

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=66256>