

I am pretty sure the movie is dealing with the Negative Zone. Think about it. Where else would Loki have been transported to after he fell through a wormhole? Look at this still. Doesn't it look like a new dimension is being opened? Anyone who is familiar with the Avengers have heard of a particular villain known as Annihilus who is a lord of the Negative Zone. He once invaded Asgard and was especially featured in a 2006 series called Annihilation Wave. Here are some of their alien space ships: Notice the group of Annihilation Wave space ships destroying its enemy fleet. Look at the ones in the upper right hand area which are rather fish-like. Now look at these pictures of the "Leviathan" from the trailer. Don't they look similar? Now look at Loki in his suit during the Stuttgart, Germany scene where he seeks to subjugate

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/news/?a=55599>