Emma Stone, who plays Gwen Stacy in the upcoming reboot, won the "Best Comedy" award for her movie Easy A last night at the Critics' Choice Award and took a few minutes of her time to answer a question about what its been like to work alongside Andrew Garfield. "He's incredibly talented and intelligent and intuitive. It means so much to him to be playing this part and just get to walk in Peter Parker's shoes. He's really just giving it his all and I've never seen anything like it. He's one of the best, not just Spider-Men, but actors I've ever met . . . A lot of times you dream about things and they pale in comparison when you actually do them, but it's better." Spider-Man 3D is set to be released on July 3, 2012!
