

For those of you that are Smallville fans who watched last week's "Booster" episode, you all know who Eric Martsof is. He is the talented actor who had the great opportunity to portray the golden guardian himself, Booster Gold. While in the show, Eric portrayed an egotistical, glory grabbing hero from the future, in reality, Eric is an extremely nice guy. When I first approached the autograph line, I quickly learned that most of the people attending were there for his role in the soap opera "Days of Our Lives". When reaching the table, I asked him if I was the first person to approach him with Booster Gold stuff to sign. He replied, "Yes, actually, you are." And he had a good laugh for that. I asked him what it was like shooting up in Vancouver on the Smallville sets: "You know, it's funny. I was there

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/superman_movies/smallville/news/?a=36263&t=Eric_Martsof_aka_Booster_Gold_from_Smallville_Interview