

The first interview comes from LeicesterSquareTV, and although the majority of the interview is focused on his thoughts about Empire Award winning, Kick-Ass, he also talks about what it was like to work on a CGI heavy movie like Green Lantern. "Yeah, a lot. There's Earthbound stuff and there's space stuff. And obviously the space stuff was all in a big green warehouse and we all wore grey tracksuits with dots on. It's like trying to make a jigsaw puzzle with two thirds of the pieces missing, so I can't wait to see it myself." Many fans have been left annoyed and concerned about the lack of new pictures and footage from the movie (especially when compared to what we've seen of both Captain America: The First Avenger and Thor) and Mark Strong addressed these concerns when quizzed by HeyUGuys. Are we going to see any photos soon? They've released something, but it's all

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=34007&t=Even_More_On_iGreen_Lanterni_From_Mark_Sinestro_Strong