

If you were to call or text my phone Saturday night, it would have went straight to voice mail as I was a little busy during the Aliens & Cowboys red carpet event and world premiere for the film. I'll be honest, it was the first event of its kind that we've attended, but Jim and I are both crossing our fingers that it's not the last. A special thanks goes out to NBC & Universal for inviting us to the event, as well as to Mark Sutherland who kindly stepped in to run the camera while I conducted the interviews! As you'll see from the number of videos below, we were able to grab quite a few of the stars, as well as the writers and producers. I tried to keep the questions within the realm of what I thought our readers would like to hear about... Specifically the tie-ins
