

A couple of nights ago, a collection of brief videos and reports from the set of The Avengers in Cleveland (standing in for Stuttgart, Germany) revealed Tom Hiddleston's Loki attacking what appeared to be an extra along with claims that he ordered the terrified locals to kneel before him. This was followed by the revelation that some sort of confrontation between Captain America and the villain would also take place. Well, earlier this evening, I was contacted by an extra who was on the set during filming who has some VERY interesting information to share with us. Here is his account. Needless to say, SPOILERS AHEAD! I wanted to assure you that the kneeling scene Kleefeld mentioned is absolutely true; I was there, and I have the scrapes on my knees to prove it. (I thought I could handle it without a kneepad; I didn't realize I would be

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=45188&t=font_color_redEXCLUSIVEfont_Dialogue_Between_Cap_And_Loki_Revealed_Additional_Casting_And_Scene_Details