

Recently I was able to speak with Joseph Gatt who has some exciting projects coming down the pipeline for 2013. A self professed geek like most of us here on the site, he's been living the dream with roles in many sci-fi, horror and comic book films and television shows. He's enjoying his career as the "bad guy" and will be kicking ass and taking names next year in 'the-still-untitled' Star Trek sequel and the original Cinemax drama, Banshee. Mark Julian: You've been in a number of films and television shows near-and-dear to the geek community. Out of said projects, which one was the best experience you've had so far as an actor? Joseph Gatt: You are so right! I have been so lucky and blessed to have been involved with such awesome projects of the type you mention... because I'm as much a geek as
