

I paid a visit to the Farmiloe building on St John Street, London being used for the Police station in the third Christian Bale Batman movie, The Dark Knight Rises, this morning (Monday) at 10am and it was a hive of activity, with the standard large trucks parked around housing the technical equipment and various fluorescent jacketed stewards and lanyard wearing staff walking about. Evidence of actual shooting in progress was the illuminated lighting rigs on the street and on a scaffold/cherry picker. The surrounding Charterhouse Square was also being used as a parking area for more technical trucks. The parking permit stuck on the various parking signs showed that this area is to be used until Saturday 21st May.

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/batman_movies/batman_the_dark_knight_rises/news/?a=37349&t=font_color_redEXCLUSIVEfont_iThe_Dark_Knight_Rises_i_London_Location_Set_Visit