

As a kid it was all about He-Man & The Masters Of The Universe. Cartoon, toys, bed sheets..you name it. I've remained a big fan, but aside from a decent revamped animated series a few years ago there hasn't been too much for fans to get excited about. But if and when they finally do get around to that new live action outing, they could do worse than take some influence from Rosario's work here. A few good guys sneak in (Ram-Man, Fisto, a pretty scary take on Orko) but it's pretty much all about the villains. He also gives us a look at his takes on Snake Mountain and Castle Greyskull..

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=55021&title=FAN_ART_Gritty_Takes_On_Some_Villains_From_THE_MASTERS_OF_THE_UNIVERSE