

During a recent Twitter Q&A, The Dark Tower's Katheryn Winnick expressed an interest in taking on the role of Black Canary in the DC Films Universe. A fan-favourite choice to play Captain Marvel, fans would love to see her play a superhero, and the response to this particular suggestion was met very positively. That doesn't mean it will happen, but some new fan-art shows us what it would look like! This is once again the work of @Bosslogic, and for those of you who weren't already convinced that she's a good fit for the role, this may very well change your mind! Of course, that depends on whether or not Green Arrow and his supporting cast are coming to the big screen. There have been rumours that Black Canary will show up in Justice League, and that's likely with Birds of Prey on the way...
