

Many thanks to MovieWeb for the above video. Here's an excerpt from Mark Brandon's blog on how he put the trailer together. Which of the movies features are you most looking forward to? Well, I've finished it and took bloody ages!! The Dark Knight Rises trailer came out and as soon as I saw it I knew I had to do a giant 2012 mash up trailer similar to my 2010 one. I made the trailer in 10 basic steps: Step 1: Downloading all 19 Trailers (1hour) Step 2: Taking all Production Company Slides, Titles, Dates and Taglines out (3hours) Step 2: Creating all Dialogue and Sound Effects sub clips (2hours) Step 4: Creating all Slow Shots, Fast Shots and Character Shot Sub clips (2hours) Step 5: Finding the Music used and preparing that (converting to AIFF types) (30mins) Step 6: Blocking out the Mac and Yahoo Logos... i didn't get to do them all but quite a few. Step

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=51842&t=FAN_MADE_Epic_Trailer_Mash-Up_For_2012s_Biggest_Blockbusters