

I was contacted by the good folks over at Nightwing: Escalation to check out the web series and I have to say, I'm pretty glad I did. Keeping an open mind and coming in with realistic expectations, as this is a fan-film made on a shoe-string budget, I was pleasantly surprised to see a real attention to detail and a shift to a heavier focus on the Gotham police force. Also, there's tons of cameos and Easter Eggs in here, ranging from Captain Marvel and Captain Marvel Jr. to The Creeper and Huntress. While I'm not going to go into a full on review as the series is still unfinished, the series is placing a paramount on story in lieu of action. I was able to catch up with producer/writer/director Alex Valderana to ask about this concept and about where the web series is headed. Mark JULIAN: What's the inspiration

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=53690&t=FAN_MADE_NIGHTWING_ESCALATION_Plus_A_Chat_With_Creator_Alex_Valderana