

Marvel may have wiped the marriage of Peter Parker and Mary Jane Watson out of comic book continuity, but MJ is still one of the most important characters in the Spider-Man mythos. With Marc Webb's The Amazing Spider-Man putting the focus on Peter's relationship with Gwen Stacy (and hints aplenty from the director and producers that we will see her death in a future instalment of the rebooted franchise), it could be argued that there's no real need to introduce MJ. However, wouldn't it be a lot more interesting if the cast was fleshed out with the likes of her and Harry Osborn?! And c'mon, how great would it be to see the, "Face It Tiger, You Just Hit The Jackpot!" scene on the big screen? Well, here are five actresses who I believe would be well worth considering for the role...

5. MARY ELIZABETH WINSTEAD Mary Elizabeth Winstead's name was brought up

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=64879>