

In "The New 52" continuity, it has been established that Wonder Woman is only 23 years old. In fact, during the events of the first arc of Justice League, she is only 18. For that reason, you shouldn't be too surprised that most of the actresses below are a little younger than you might expect. They're also not the 7ft tall busty types which are repeatedly suggested simply because they look the part. Instead, I have chosen those who I believe could make a Wonder Woman movie the success it deserves to be, although it's fair to say that each of these would bring something VERY different to the role (bear in mind that all of them could be made to look as big as Diana in a similar style to how Tom Hardy was enhanced as Bane in The Dark Knight Rises). Check out my top five choices below, and
