

It's been a great year for comic book movies (well, mostly!) and here are my top ten moments from those released this past year. I'm sure you all have your own opinions on these and many others, so please feel free to sound off with your thoughts in the usual place.

10. The Green Hornet - Gangster's Paradise While not everyone enjoyed Michel Gondry's take on The Green Hornet, the scene between Seth Rogen (Green Hornet) and Jay Chou (Kato) in which the duo sing along to Coolio's "Gangster's Paradise" while taking the Black Beauty out for the first time is what Rogen quite rightly describes in the film as "so wicked".

9. Captain America: The First Avenger - "We Had A Date" There was plenty of action to be found in Captain America, but this quiet ending to the blockbuster strikes more of a chord than all of those combined. The relationship between

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=52007&t=FEATURE_The_Ten_Best_Comic_Book_Movie_Moments_Of_2011