

"I mean, who says there's going to be a costume? I mean, this is a modern...." said actor Finn Jones (Game of Thrones) when asked by Extra about whether he'll actually wear Danny Rand's classic green and yellow superhero costume. However he quickly teased, "I can't say any more. Marvel's gonna kill me. There maybe a costume, there may not be." It's hard to picture a scenario where Marvel TV does a literal 'one-for-one' adaptation of Iron Fist's classic costume. Even Charlie Cox's Daredevil (who has a pretty comic book accurate costume) took a few liberties. Krysten Ritter's Jessica Jones made fun of the superhero costume "Jewel" initially wore in the comics, although that was actually in keeping with Jones' comic book origin of former superhero turned private investigator. As for Mike Colter's Luke Cage, the character hasn't worn his Power Man costume and tiara in decades. Out of all The Defenders, Iron Fist's costume just might be the most difficult to translate from page

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/tv/marvel/iron_fist/finn-jones-teases-iron-fistss-classic-comic-book-costume-a148515