

Thanks to a fan Twitter account, we have our first glimpse of Alicia Vikander in costume as Lara Croft on the set of the currently shooting Tomb Raider reboot. As you can see, the pics were taken while the Ex Machina actress was filming what look to be some very physical action scenes. As we expected, her outfit is a lot more reminiscent of the recent video game costumes than the more revealing duds sported by Angelina Jolie in the previous movies. Director Roar Uthaug took to social media late last month to announce that production was underway on the reboot, so we might just get an official look at Vikander as Croft soon now that these images are out there.

Written by Transformers: The Last Knight scribe Geneva Robertson-Dworet, the new Tomb Raider movie is currently set to be released on March 16th, 2018.

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/action/first-behind-the-scenes-look-at-alicia-vikander-as-lara-croft-on-the-set-a148739>