

Courtesy of Bleeding Cool, we now have what may be our first description of the teaser trailer for the upcoming film John Carter, which will reportedly be attached to the new Harry Potter film next week. Check it out below... The trailer begins with shots on Earth, the young Edgar Rice Burroughs being met in the street and addressed. It was the name "Burroughs" and the face of Daryl Sabara that tipped me off to what this trailer was. If these Earth shots weren't filmed on an expansive, real soundstage but created digitally, it's top-tier stuff. It was a living, breathing street, very busy and cluttered with life. No matter how they were created, they were very pleasing. And I'll be damned if I can't remember how the transition to Mars, or perhaps more properly Barsoom, comes, but it must have been more or less a straight cut – a quick fade to black

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=41209&t=First_Description_Of_IJohn_Carteri_Trailer_Revealed